Your health is our priority and we are following the regulations issued by the Belgian authorities to ensure the safety of all participants at the Palais d’Egmont, Brussels.

As COVID-19 is still with us, we would like to draw your attention to the following guidance:

- Please respect precautionary measures including washing your hands regularly, avoiding handshakes and coughing into your elbow.
- Please do not attend the meetings if you are testing positive for COVID-19.
- If you are recovering from COVID-19, please only attend the meetings if you have been free of symptoms for at least 48 hours.
- If you have been in contact with someone with COVID, you may attend the meetings; but please wear a well-fitted mask and leave the meetings if you begin to experience COVID-like symptoms.
- If you have COVID-like symptoms, please stay away from the meetings and get tested for COVID.
- If you have COVID-like symptoms and your COVID test is negative, you may attend the meetings; but please wear a well-fitted mask (in case it is too early for the test to detect COVID).

If you need help or advice on COVID-related matters while attending the meetings, please contact: contact@statistics4future.eu

We suggest you come back to this page closer to your travelling date, as measures imposed by the authorities may evolve.
